

Justification for Requesting Subsidy

As I have mentioned in my motivation letter, I am trying to build a research group and currently still applying for funding.

There is a limited budget for travelling from the R&D allover budget, and it is shared with other researchers. As part of the annual performance review I should also present at a conference, so I cannot justify directing my limited travel budget towards attending a summer school, regardless of how relevant and important it is for my work.
